

Managing Local Sponsors

To offset the costs of food, giveaways, and other expenses during meetups, we recommend that Group Leaders cultivate local sponsors for their meetups. Sponsorships can be a win-win: companies get brand exposure while communities get the resources they need.

Types of Sponsorships

- Financial / Cash: Cash is exchanged for benefits, perks, or publicity.
 - In-Kind: Goods or services are given instead of cash (e.g., venue, speakers, food, swag prizes).

Tips for Cultivating & Managing Sponsors

1. Build Relationships First

- Establish strong relationships with local professionals and/or AWS user groups (if available).
- Build your brand as an ambassador and clarify the value you can provide to sponsors (e.g., filling the industry skills gap in the labor market).
- Remember: you're offering companies exposure to a valuable group of potential customers and/or talent.

→ A strong starting point: look for an AWS Partner in your region.

2. Plan Your Event

- Choose a date at least 6 weeks out.
- Build a budget by identifying what you need and how much you expect it to cost.

3. Draft a Sponsorship Letter

- Offer different sponsorship levels (see examples below).
- Provide an overview of the event including:
 - How many people will attend? Who are the attendees, and what do they hope to get out of the event?
 - Who are the speakers, and what are they speaking about?
 - Who else is sponsoring the event, and in what capacity?

4. Offer Meaningful Benefits

- Include sponsor logos in all marketing materials.
- Offer social media coverage or a brief speaking opportunity at the event.
- Share their job opportunities, product information/promo codes, or upcoming events with your members.

5. Vet Your Sponsors

- Ensure all sponsors agree to your meetup Code of Conduct.

- Prioritize sponsors with a positive reputation and alignment to your Group's values.
- Do not allow competing cloud providers to sponsor your meetup (this includes Google and Microsoft). If co-hosting with a Google Developer Student Club or Azure meetup, consider splitting costs equally.

6. Follow Up After the Event

- Send a thank-you email that includes total attendance, attendee feedback, and photos.
- Ask if there is anything else you can do for them.
- Keep sponsors informed about future opportunities.
